Presentation at MNCH Roundtable Strategy Meeting, Washington, DC, 21 Jan. 2011

What is the Global Strategy?

The Global Strategy For Women's and Children's Health is a focused effort to achieve MDGs 4 and 5. It aims to accelerate progress, deliver results, and ensure accountability by:

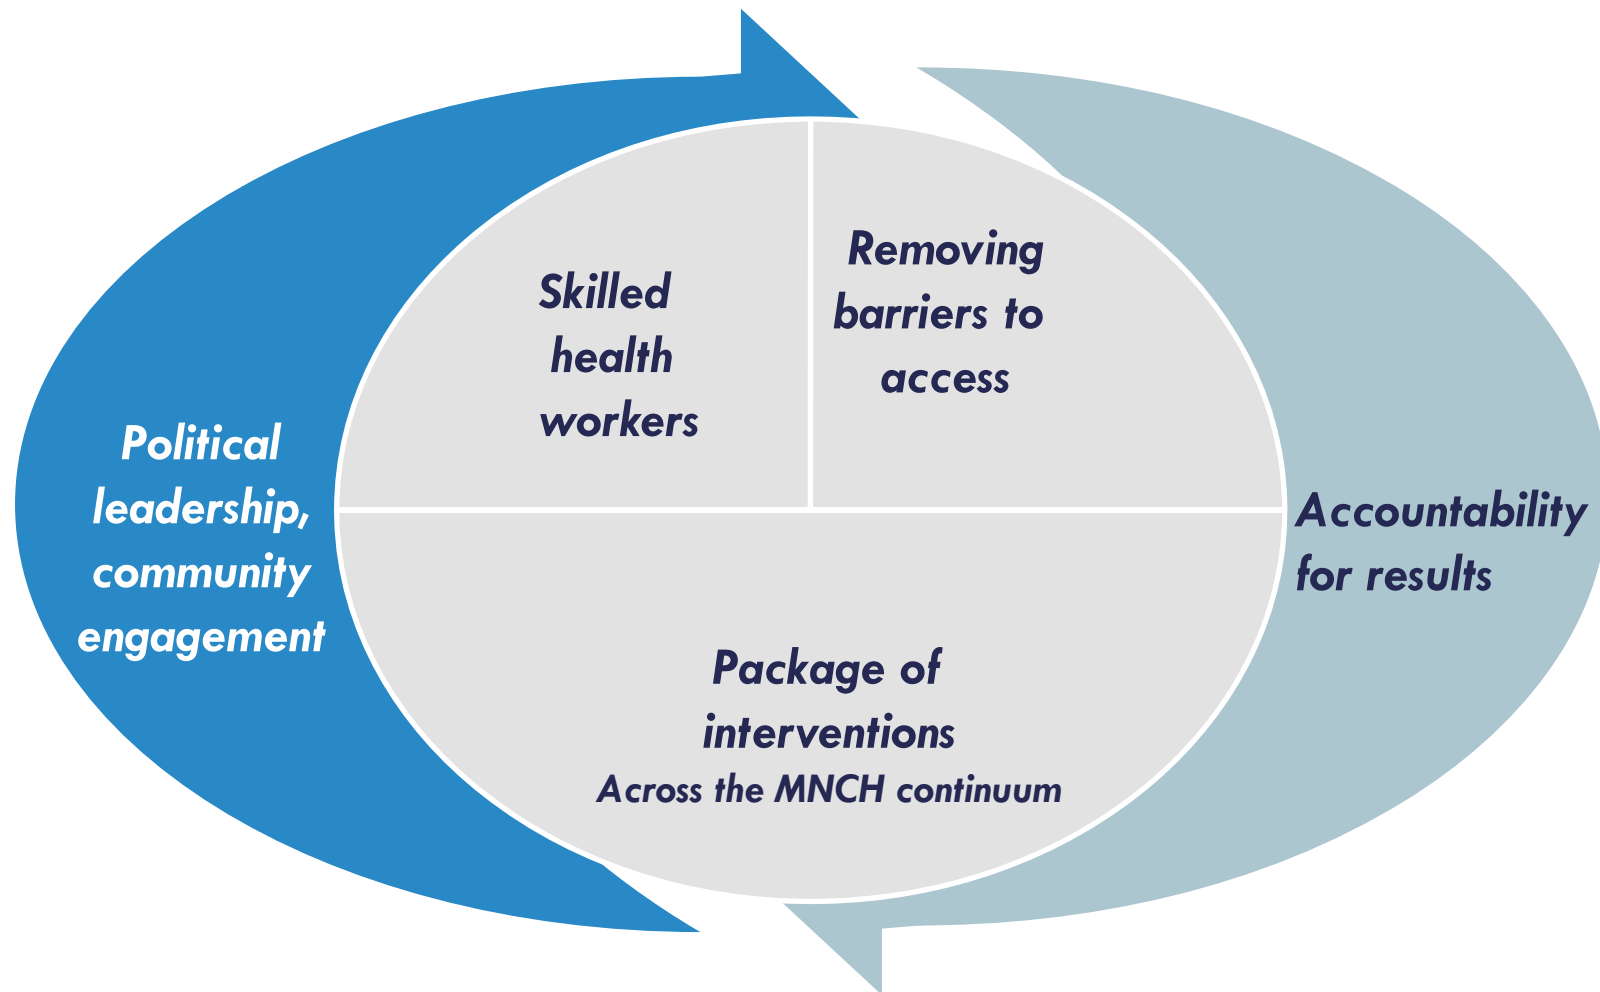

- Galvanizing commitments & action from partners
- Prioritizing women's and children's health in national health plans
- Ensuring access to a comprehensive, integrated package of essential services and interventions
- Addressing critical health system gaps
- Holding ourselves accountable for results
- Addressing social determinants

This is not a “new” global health initiative. It builds on existing efforts and aims to gain new commitments

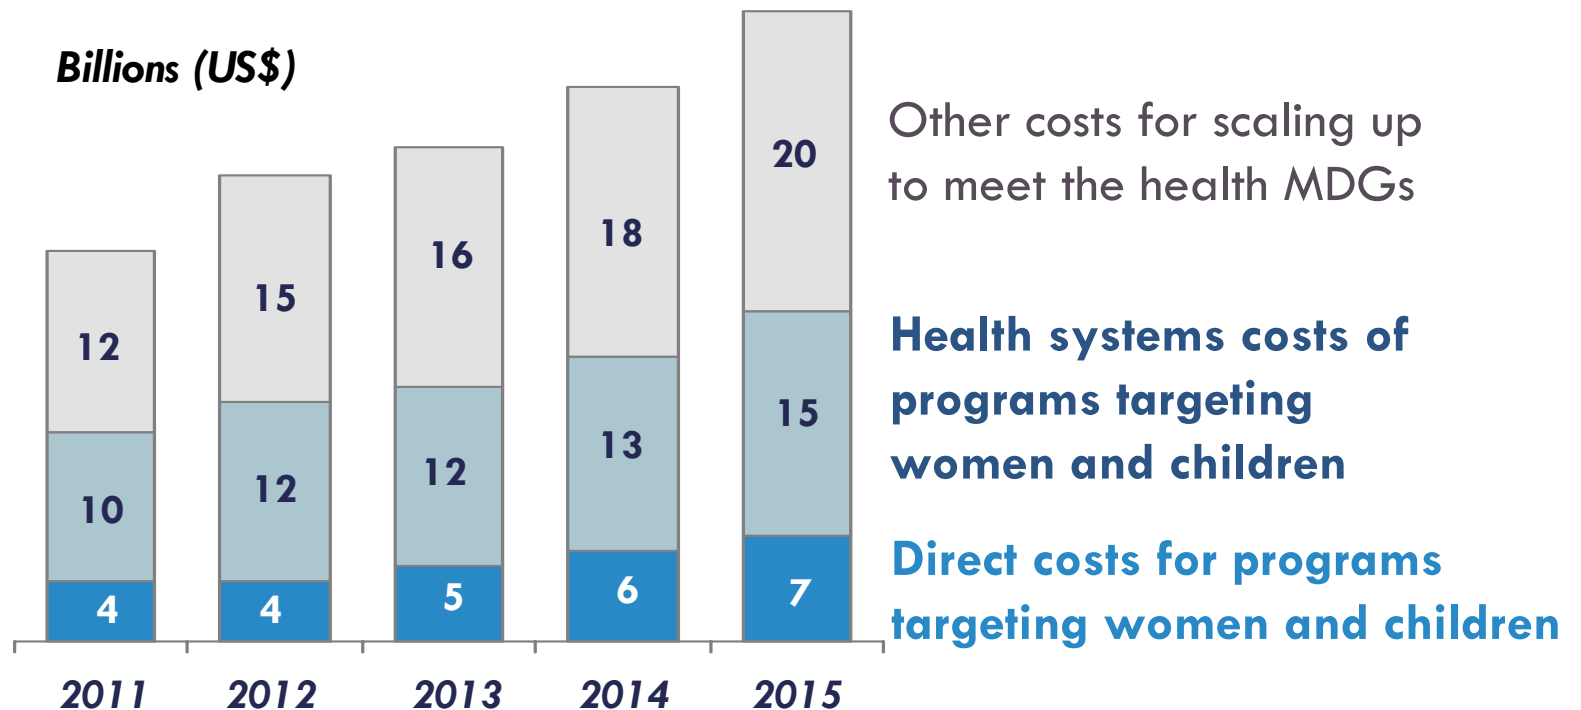

More health for the money:

The Global Consensus on Maternal, Newborn, and Child Health

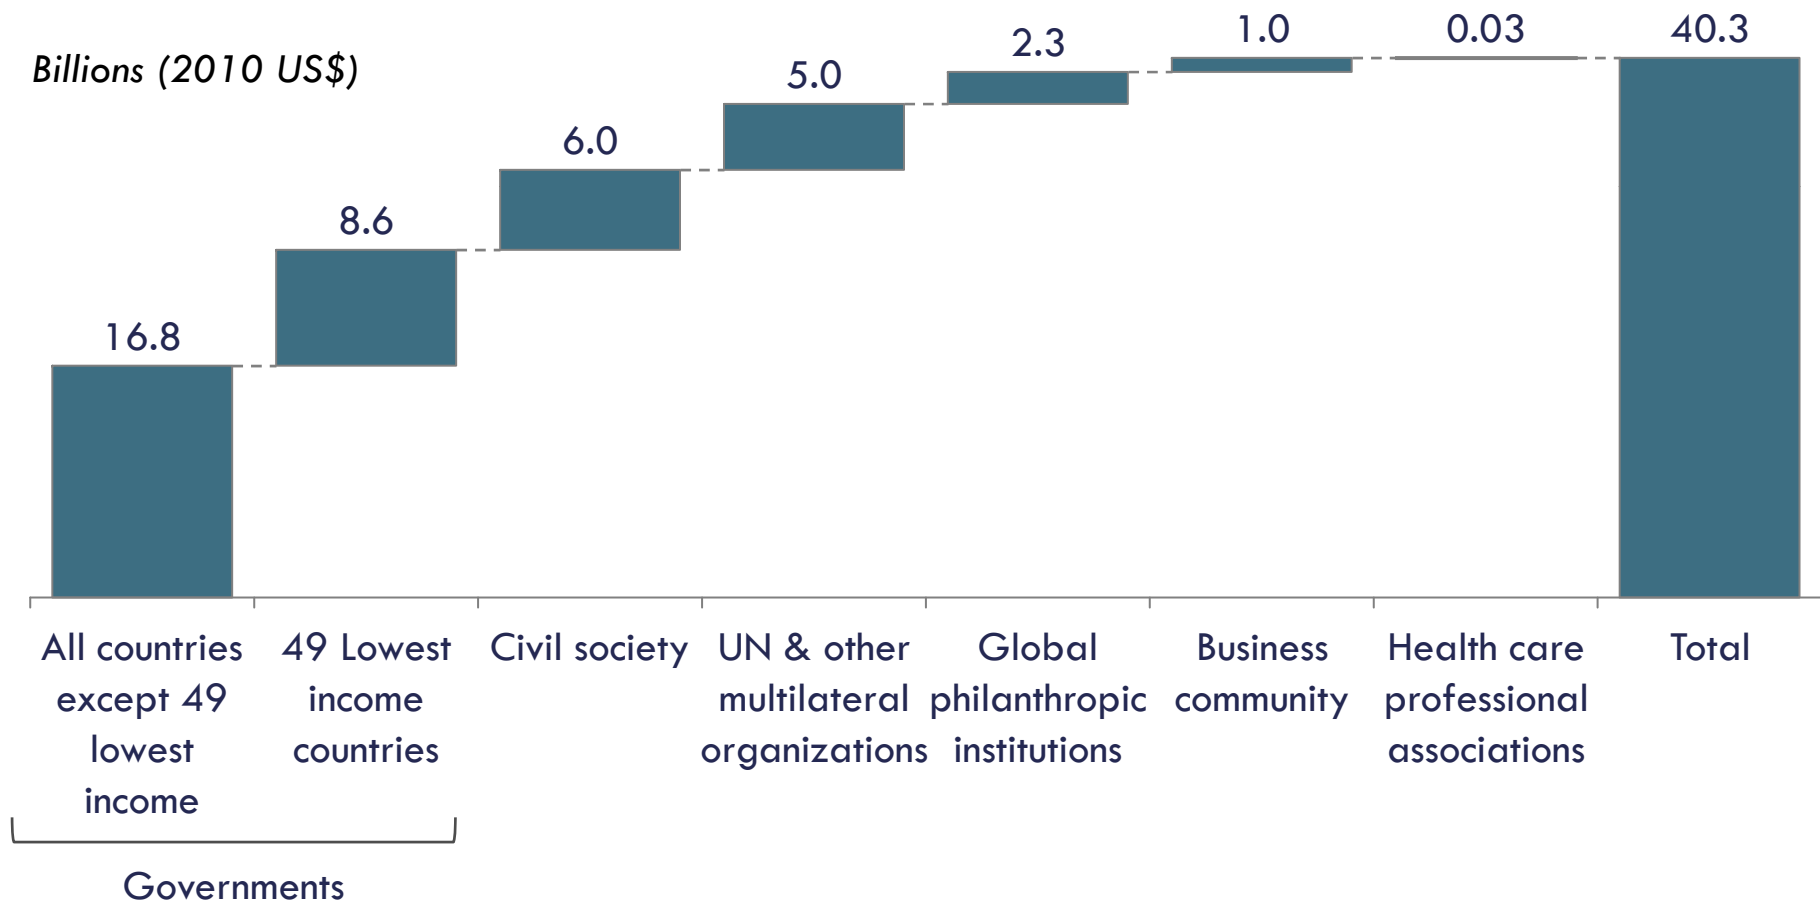

More money for health:

Substantial funding gap: $26B in 2011,
$42B in 2015 (for 49 lowest-income countries)

At MDG Summit, $40 billion pledged by stakeholders

Note: Additional commitments have been made but could not be translated into dollar value. These estimates are made in current dollars.

Where does the Global Strategy stand now?

Multiple stakeholders, continued engagement by UNSG:

- www.everywomaneverychild.org – web site
- Global Campaign for the Health MDGs report – Nov. 2010
- UN agencies (H4+) focusing on country action (fulfillment of current commitments, new commitments in more countries)
- GS is PMNCH priority for 2011, and beyond
 - Partners' Forum in Delhi – “From Pledges to Action”
 - Commissioning analysis of $40 billion
 - Ongoing advocacy
- Commission on Accountability and Information

Commission on Accountability and Information

In mid-December, UN announced high-level Commission on Information and Accountability for Women's and Children's Health

- Co-chaired by President of Tanzania and Prime Minister of Canada
- 25+ Commissioners from developed and developing countries, academia, civil society and the private sector
- Will develop framework for tracking resources and results at global and country levels; 2 working groups are:
 - Identifying a core set of indicators
 - Making recommendations on accountability mechanism(s)
 - Proposing steps to improve health information and vital registration
- Report by May 2011
